

Focal Points of Introducing China Dream Into Classroom, Into Textbooks and Into University Students' Mind

LI Changsong^{[a],*}; NIU Qingyan^[a]

^[a]School of Political Science and Public Administration, Southwest University, Chongqing, China.

*Corresponding author.

Supported by the Fundamental Research Funds for the Central Universities "Research on Introducing China Dream Into Classroom, Into Textbooks and Into University Students' Minds" (SWU1509125).

Received 2 February 2015; accepted 15 April 2015
Published online 26 May 2015

Abstract

Concerning the work of introducing China Dream into class, into textbooks and into university students' mind, three focal points need to be highly stressed, namely, laying the solid ideological foundation of practicing China Dream, enriching and expanding the primary coverage of practicing China Dream, and then clarifying the conjunction between students' voluntary practicing China Dream and their self-fulfillment.

Key words: China dream; Education; Focal points; University students' mind

Li, C. S., & Niu, Q. Y. (2015). Focal Points of Introducing China Dream Into Classroom, Into Textbooks and Into University Students' Mind. Cross-Cultural Communication, 11(5), 82-84. Available from: <http://www.cscanada.net/index.php/ccc/article/view/7062>
DOI: <http://dx.doi.org/10.3968/7062>

INTRODUCTION

The following three focal points deserve our attention in advocating China Dream on campus, enlightening and arousing university students' consciousness and enthusiasm in practicing the remarkable cause diligently and voluntarily.

1. LAYING THE SOLID IDEOLOGICAL FOUNDATION OF PRACTICING CHINA DREAM

China Dream, the embodiment of national outlook, illuminates appropriately the conjunction of personal and national ideals. Needless to say, soaking university students in the outlook of the remarkable cause and integrating their value with that of the nation coincide with its educational objectives. Besides, these two values promote and supplement each other in a way of dialectical unity.

In the late 20 century, the successful creation of American Dream inspires floods of immigrants to the United State. Consequently, the spirit of innovation and diligent struggle has been seared into the genetic make-up of people baptized by American Dream. The attraction of personal freedom and fulfillment lures Americans to grasp and pursue material possessions and earthly happiness, while the excessive publicity of American Dream ultimately brings about its exclusiveness. The success of the minority is normally achieved at the cost of the majority. Thus, the American Dream is actually an elite outlook in the disguise of forgiveness and equality. Therefore, the American Dream rarely provides social ladder for the weak and their personal ideals serve as the sacrifice of the nation. By the way of contrast, China Dream is universal, national and individual. It is a great perspective for people's blessings. Furthermore, socialist core value makes a common foundation for the dream of the nation, the people and all ethnic groups. China Dream is the consequence of integrating and subliming dreams of 1.3 billion Chinese people and it is rarely the simple segregation. Oriented as community with the personal ideals, China Dream springs logically from them, and then fulfills its final purpose of a win-win situation.

The essence of China Dream lies in the consciousness of dialectical unity between personal and national ideals and the realization of the connection between personal and national destiny. Besides, university students' historical responsibility should be strengthened as well. It's also vital for them to build their personal ideals and enjoy the opportunity for living a colorful life and advancing with the times under the guidance of China Dream. Meanwhile, parties concerned should strengthen university students' ideological foundation and correct their view of the world, life and value. In addition, they should instruct university students to love their motherland, the people and the great Chinese nation. And they should cultivate the students with the theory of building socialism with Chinese characteristics and make the acceptance of China Dream embedded into their cognition and belief. University students' reviews and prospects of history and state condition should be built upon a correct acknowledgement on reality and law of the country. Parties concerned should adhere to the socialist road, theory and system, and strive for realizing China Dream under the leadership of CCP. In spite of the education on political theory, we should firm university students' ideological foundation by the support of reality, different social sectors and data. Conversely, the publicity of China Dream in universities will be a trumped-up fairy tale. Altogether, we should reinforce their ideological foundation with scientific theory and firm their faith towards China Dream with spirits of motivation.

2. ENRICHING AND EXPANDING THE PRIMARY COVERAGE OF PRACTICING CHINA DREAM

Parties concerned should grasp the essential connotation of China Dream and bring forth its theoretical innovation. The connotation of the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation is to bring about the rejuvenation of the nation, people's welfare and prosperity of the nation. Certainly, the publicity of China Dream on campus accommodates not only elaborating economic and military affairs, aka hard power, but also culture and system, aka soft power. In short, realizing prosperity of our nation is building a prosperous, democratic and civilized socialist country. The publicity of China Dream should clarify the essential connotation of rejuvenation of the nation, i.e. the rejuvenation is not the simple restoration of its historical domain, and conversely it's the remarkable contribution to the world civilization following our predecessors. Furthermore, we should make clear that people's welfare is improving and solving issues of livelihood. It aims at improving people's sense of happiness and ensuring their equal access to colorful lives, dreams and self-improvement.

We should investigate the characteristics of China Dream. Chinese president Xi points out that: "People's prospect towards better life is what we are striving for." and "We must bring benefits to the people endlessly." This statement elaborates not only the commitments of new central leadership, but also the political appeals. It clearly reflects the political features of China dream. "The realization of the rejuvenation the Chinese nation is a long-cherished wish since modern times." China Dream is historic, practical and future-oriented. It reflects Chinese people's profound pursuit and its historic features. "China Dream is for the nation, for all ethnic groups and for the people", but "It is for the people eventually." These statements reflect people's prospects and pursuit of better life. Moreover, they convey the voice of the people, i.e. hundreds of millions of Chinese people support China Dream uncompromisingly. Undoubtedly, common people's better life is the basic principle of carrying out China Dream. China Dream is also characterized with practicalness. And "the realization of China Dream and people's better life are still a long way to run. It calls for the devotion and efforts of the Chinese people." Then, peoples' passion, confidence and determination of realizing dreams will get inspired thoroughly. In addition, it is more inclusive. It not only blurs the definition of stratum, region and social position, but also clarifies its stand from a peaceful, developmental, cooperative and all-win perspective. It is not only a dream for the Chinese people, but also a prospect for people throughout the world.

Parties concerned should clarify the evolution of China Dream and heighten student's confidence. The Eighteenth CPC National Congress advances a lifetime cause of "two 100 years". Xi mentioned the cause repeatedly when discussing China Dream, and stated confidently "Nowadays, we are unprecedentedly close to the objective of rejuvenating the Chinese nation, and we are increasingly confident and capable of making it." The deep and thorough understanding of its evolution helps to heighten university students' confidence and determination of realizing the dream vigorously. Its evolution can be roughly divided into three stages, i.e. the first stage from 1840 to 1949 is called "national salvation"; the second stage from 1949 to 1978 is called "national foundation"; and the last stage from 1978 to now is called "national rejuvenation". Xi points out that "we can draw the conclusion that China Dream witnesses an evolution of spontaneity and consciousness, besides, it also experiences a process of inferiority and superiority. It is characterized with phased manifestation and persistent common direction." The perspective of the rejuvenation of the Chinese nation runs through this period and it reflects the unremitting efforts and quest of the Chinese people since the modern times.

3. CLARIFYING THE CONJUNCTION BETWEEN STUDENTS' VOLUNTARY PRACTICING CHINA DREAM AND THEIR SELF-FULFILLMENT

Combined with people's personal dreams, China Dream can react positively upon them. China Dream is a specific prospect closely related to campus life, i.e. "dream of education", "dream of occupation", "dream of personal development" and "dream of self-accomplishment". The combination of China Dream cultivation and students' self-accomplishment on campus should be integrated to affect positively the ideological and political education. Therefore, the adherence to the laws of personnel development will lead to university students to the realization of national prospects and personal dreams under the perspective of China Dream.

University students of the time can foster the scientific worldly ideal under the guidance of China Dream. Ideals determine the direction of your life, while faith determines your career development. In other words, the absence of ideal leads to calcium deficiency mentally. Chinese people, including the youth, should have a great aim and determination to foster a lofty ideal and adhere firmly to this common aspiration of the whole mankind. Undoubtedly, socialist road with Chinese characteristics is a correct approach CCP adopts to realize China Dream, and it applies to university students' personal achievements. Every student on campus holds his own ideal and the desire of self-accomplishment, thus, the integration of personal ideal and national prospects, together with the profound understanding of the reality on socialist construction, helps them select and foster their ideals.

China Dream motivates university students' self-accomplishment. Youth is the colorful and inspiring time for great expectations and the realization of personal dreams. The process of realizing China Dream is definitely the process that students strive and struggle for their dreams with unbending will. Besides, the prosperity of the nation, rejuvenation of the nation and people's welfare to prop up the framework of China Dream's core value. It integrates closely students' self-accomplishment with the great rejuvenation of the nation, and motivates vigorously university students' future development.

China Dream clarifies university students' responsibilities of serving the country. The prosperity and rejuvenation of the country rely mainly on the development of the youth. Certainly, they shoulder the important responsibility of realizing China Dream, and make contribution to the construction of a prosperous, democratic and civilized socialist country with the attitude of serving the country and society. Meanwhile, university students adopt "China Dream" as the keynote to realize their personal accomplishment and balance their ideals with social devotions. University students are required to face the hardships and difficulties ahead with unbending wills and shoulder the responsibilities of rejuvenating the nation with specific knowledge and independent thinking.

Nowadays, some unhealthy social thoughts shock people's great expectations and faith. Accordingly, university students' concepts, value and psychological quality witness the erosion of pluralism, utilitarianism and fragility. This induces the "shortsightedness" and disillusion of university students. The cultivation of China Dream elaborates their closeness with the country and clarifies the importance of their efforts of changing their fate. Parties concerned should encourage university students to foster great expectations and integrate their own ideals with that of the nation and the world. Besides, they should combine their personal power with that of the public and strive to achieve their own expectations. The ideological and political education should support university students and pave their way for self-accomplishment in spite of inspiring them to seek dreams. In addition, university students should be entitled to the education of career planning, selecting jobs and pioneering spirit. In order to provide them with the insight of savoir-vivre, education on social norms, including morality and legality and interpersonal relationship should be developed among them.

In short, publicizing the work of China Dream has already become the brand new subject of ideological and political education among university students. The core content of realizing China Dream depends mainly on leading students to the insight of comprehending, constructing and seeking it. We should integrate these three focal points with students' education of patriotism, ideals and practical abilities. Finally, they should steep themselves deeply in the process of realizing China Dream and become men of tremendous promise.

REFERENCES

- Jiang, Z. Y. (2014). Research on education of China dream among university students. Construction of Old Liberated Areas.
- Li, Z. P., & Yang, J. F. (2014). Education on China dream: A era topic about university students' ideological and political education. Journal of Chifeng University.
- Luo, Y. T., & Shi, S. S. (2013). Education on China dream: A new subject about university students' ideological and political education. Research on Ideological Education.
- Xi, J. P. (2013, May 5). Address at the young talent briefing. People's Daily.
- Xi, J. P. (2013, March 18). Address at the first session of the twelfth NPC. People's Daily, p.1.